

ANTHROPOLOGY (CULTURE & LANGUAGE) - BACHELOR OF ARTS

The BA in Anthropology with a concentration in Culture and Language supports Anthropology majors who wish to develop a focus in cultural anthropology, linguistics, and foreign languages that develops the knowledge, skills, and abilities to navigate an increasingly globalized world. The concentration provides coursework that underpins successful international study abroad experiences, which enables students to gain cross-cultural experience needed for employment in transnational and international organizations and agencies.

A total of 12 credits earned with C- or above is required for the concentration, along with non-departmental second language requirement demonstrating two years proficiency in a second language or equivalent/placement.

³ Students taking nine or more credits in a specific subject area, even though the courses are not designated as General Education courses, will have met the general education requirements for that subject area.

⁴ All students must take one Area III: Laboratory Science (4 credits), one Area IV: Social/Behavioral Science Course (3 credits) and one additional course in either area (3-4 credits) in order to complete the requirement.

⁵ Students completing the concentration in Culture and Language may take either LING 2110G Introduction to the Study of Language and Linguistics or LING 302V Language and Society, but not both to satisfy the core requirement (3 credits).

Note: Students currently enrolled in the Anthropology program and who have completed ANTH 320 Anthropological Linguistics have fulfilled this requirement. Please see the Anthropology department head to process a substitution form.*

⁶ Students must complete two Viewing the Wider World Courses (<https://catalogs.nmsu.edu/nmsu/general-education-viewing-wider-world/#viewingawiderworldtext>) (VWW) for a total of 6 credits. One VWW must be from outside of the College of Arts and Sciences, and the second must be from outside of Anthropology. A student may substitute three credits taken as study abroad for one of the VWW course requirements.

⁷ ANTH 301 Cultural Anthropology, ANTH 315 Archaeological Method and Theory, and ANTH 355 Biological Anthropology may be taken in any order that best suits the student's interests.

⁸ Study abroad and FLIP courses approved by the Anthropology Department Head.

⁹ Please note that immersion courses abroad are available through Study Abroad and may substitute for courses in the second language sequence. Please see second language options below for other equivalencies and proficiency options.

Second Language Requirement

For the Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology, all majors must reach a one year proficiency in a foreign language (through 1120 level, completed with a C- or better) or equivalent/placement. Students who choose to earn the Concentration in Culture and Language must reach a two year proficiency in a foreign language (through 2120 level with a C- or better) or equivalent/placement. The options to complete these requirements are listed below. The number of credits that a student needs to take may vary depending on what level of language proficiency they already possess. Please speak with an advisor for more information as to which courses you will need to take to fulfill the second language requirement for this degree. Please note that language immersion courses are available through the Office of Experiential Learning and Education Abroad.
